

The International Residual Mechanism for Criminal Tribunals (“Mechanism”) was established on 22 December 2010 by the United Nations Security Council to continue the jurisdiction, rights, obligations and essential functions of the International Criminal Tribunal for Rwanda (“ICTR”) and the International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (“ICTY”) which closed in 2015 and 2017, respectively.

OVERVIEW OF MECHANISM JUDICIAL WORK

In accordance with its mandate, the Mechanism has assumed responsibility for a wide range of judicial matters including, inter alia, the supervision of the enforcement of sentences, administrative review, assignment of cases, review proceedings, retrials, appeal proceedings, contempt of court proceedings, requests for revocation of the referral of cases to national jurisdictions, the variation of witness protection measures, access to materials, disclosure, changes in classification of documents, and requests for remuneration and assignment of counsel. According to its Statute, the Mechanism has a roster of 25 independent judges comprising a full-time President and 24 other judges who work remotely unless called to exercise their functions at either of the Mechanism’s two branches.
